Background Facts
1.	Plaintiff John Hancock Life Insurance Company, a company duly formed and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, provides insurance and investment products to retail and institutional customers. John Hancock also is an investor in a diversified portfolio of investments, including commercial loans, corporate bonds, public and private securities and various other types of investment vehicles.	Blewitt, ¶ 4
2.	Plaintiff John Hancock Variable Life Insurance Company ("JHVL") is an affiliated company of John Hancock Life Insurance Company, duly formed and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. JHVL provides variable life insurance products that link life insurance coverage and an investment return to an underlying portfolio of investments selected by the policyholder.	Blewitt, ¶ 5

3.	Plaintiff Manulife Insurance Company (“Manulife”) is an insurance company duly formed and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware. Prior to approximately February 2005, Manulife was known as “Investors Partner Life Insurance Company.” Manulife is a wholly-owned subsidiary of JHVL that sells various types of life insurance products.	Blewitt, ¶ 6
4.	Unless otherwise indicated, plaintiffs John Hancock, JHVL and Manulife are collectively referred to herein as “John Hancock,” “Hancock” or the “Plaintiffs.”	Blewitt, ¶ 7
5.	Defendant Abbott Laboratories (“Abbott”), a corporation duly formed and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, is a broad-based healthcare company that discovers, develops, manufactures and markets products and services that span the continuum of care from prevention and diagnosis to treatment and cure. 6.	Abbott's principal businesses are global pharmaceuticals, nutritionals, and medical products. Abbott has nearly 100 years experience developing new pharmaceutical compounds. Abbott's "areas of expertise" in the field of pharmaceuticals include anti-infectives, neuroscience and oncology.		Ex. 321 at 1 (Abbott's 2006 10K)
7.	For fiscal 2006, Abbott achieved sales and net earnings of $22.48 billion and $1.72 billion, respectively. Abbott currently employs over 65,000 people worldwide, and spends more than $2.3 billion annually on research and development.		Ex. 321 at 7, 26, 34 (Abbott's 2006 10K)
The Negotiation of the Research Funding Agreement
8.	This action arises out of a "Research Funding Agreement" that John Hancock and Abbott executed on March 13, 2001 (the "Agreement").		Ex. 32 at JH 008115 (RFA)
9.	Prior to 2001, John Hancock and Abbott had developed a business relationship based upon a series of joint investments in various pharmaceutical or biotech companies.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 11-16, 19 Deemer, ¶ 9	Ex. 277 at AL 000100 (Abbott Slide Presentation re: John Hancock)

10.	In or about 1999, Abbott and John Hancock began discussions about a possible investment by Hancock in a portfolio of new pharmaceutical compounds that Abbott had under development.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 18-19 Deemer, ¶ 10
11.	Most of the preliminary discussions concerning the Agreement took place between Stephen Blewitt, a Managing Director in John Hancock's Bond and Corporate Finance Group, Philip Deemer, then the Director of Abbott's Corporate Licensing Department, and Stephen Cohen, Abbott's Controller for the Pharmaceutical Research and Development Division.	Blewitt, ¶ 19	Ex. 66 at AL 000132 (e-mail message from S. Blewitt to P. Deemer and S. Cohen)	Deemer, 1491:12-14	Deemer, 25:20-26:1
12.	Abbott was interested in a potential funding agreement with Hancock, in part, because it offered Abbott the opportunity to supplement its internal research and development budget from what Abbott regarded as the least expensive external funding source. John Hancock, in turn, was seeking above-average returns on a portion of its investment portfolio, while simultaneously reducing its level of risk.	Blewitt, ¶ 21	Ex. 412 (Abbott internal presentation titled "Abbott-John Hancock Funding Collaboration")

13.	Over time, the parties began to concentrate their discussions on an investment structure whereby John Hancock would invest approximately $50 million per year over a four-year period to fund the development of a specified “basket” of pharmaceutical compounds in Abbott’s then current research and development portfolio. Abbott was informed by John Hancock, and understood, that the proposed deal structure was highly dependent upon the number of pharmaceutical compounds included in the transaction, as well as the stage of development and expected sales of each compound.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 22, 24  Hartz, ¶¶ 7, 9	Ex. 30 (Proposed Summary of Terms)  Ex. 66 at AL 000132 (e-mail message from S. 14.	John Hancock specifically requested a diversified basket of compounds reflecting a variety of therapeutic indications, stages of development, and expected sales in order to provide an acceptable return on Hancock’s proposed investment and reduce Hancock’s overall level of risk.	Blewitt, ¶ 25  Hartz, ¶ 11	Ex. 150 at JH 002424-25 (Blewitt memorandum to Hancock executives re: Proposed JH-Abbott deal)  Ex. 125 at JH 001203 (Hancock Purchase Recommendations for the Abbott deal (a/k/a the “Yellow Report”))	Blewitt,  15:20-17:5  138:12-139:4  Tucker,  1539:17-1541:6  1542:14-1545:11  1579:5-11

15.	In or about mid-2000, the parties began the process of identifying a suitable basket of pharmaceutical compounds to include in the proposed deal, and to develop a mutually-acceptable royalty payment structure.	Blewitt, ¶ 26
16.	Among the compounds proposed by Abbott for inclusion in the John Hancock basket were ABT-518, a Matrix Metalloproteinase Inhibitor (MMPI) for the treatment of cancer; ABT-594, a selective neuronal nicotinic receptor (NNR) agonist for the treatment of chronic pain that just was commencing a Phase IIb clinical trial for diabetic neuropathic pain; ABT-773, one of a new class of powerful antibiotics known as “ketolides”; and ABT-980, a selective alpha blocker for the treatment of urinary tract blockages. PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED FINDING OF FACT	AFFIDAVIT CITATION	TRIAL EXHIBIT NUMBER	TRIAL TRANSCRIPT CITATION	DEPOSITION DESIGNATION
17.	In entering into its proposed investment with Abbott, John Hancock intended to invest only in promising development candidates with positive commercial prospects. John Hancock did not intend to invest in compounds that Abbott knew, or had reason to believe, would be discontinued shortly.	Blewitt, ¶ 27 Hartz, ¶ 12	Ex. 150 at JH 002424-25 (Blewitt memorandum to Hancock executives re: Proposed JH-Abbott deal) Ex. 125 at JH 001207 (Hancock Purchase Recommendations for the Abbott deal (a/k/a the "Yellow Report"))
18.	John Hancock needed up-to-date and accurate information concerning the status of, and prospects for, the compounds that were to be included in its proposed deal with Abbott in order to understand and properly evaluate that deal.	Blewitt, ¶ 28 Klotz, ¶ 19			Deemer, 92:15-93:13

19.	John Hancock was not in a position, however, to independently know the current status, prospects or plans for each of the deal compounds within Abbott's pharmaceutical R&amp;D organization. That is why John Hancock required, with Abbott's agreement, that Abbott formally represent and warrant to Hancock the up-to-date status, condition and plans for the various "Program Compounds" in the proposed basket of compounds.	Blewitt, ¶ 28 Klotz, ¶ 19	Ex. 32 at ABBT 008107-8 (RFA) Ex. 265 (Feb. 2001 ABT-518 Descriptive Memorandum) Ex. 182 (Feb. 2001 ABT-594 Descriptive Memorandum) Ex. 164 (Feb. 2001 ABT-773 Descriptive Memorandum)	Blewitt, 46:4-25 184:12-186:12

20.	During negotiations, Abbott provided John Hancock with a variety of technical, financial and other information concerning the Program Compounds. Abbott established internal working groups, which included personnel from Abbott's business development, new product development, and research and development organizations, to prepare a series of written "Descriptive Memoranda" for use by John Hancock in understanding and assessing the scientific status of, and commercial prospects for, each Program Compound.	Blewitt, ¶ 30  Hartz, ¶ 14  Leonard, ¶¶ 11-13	Ex. 275 (Apr. 2000 e-mail message from R. 21.	The Descriptive Memoranda prepared by Abbott describe, among other things: (a) the development status and technical merits of each compound (including the status and/or results of any clinical trials); (b) the specific indications ( i.e. , conditions or disease states) for which the compounds were being developed by Abbott; (c) the nature and severity of any known or suspected side effects; (d) the estimated size of the U.S. and ex-U.S. commercial markets for each compound; and (e) the identity of any actual or potential competing products from other pharmaceutical companies.	Blewitt, ¶ 31  Klotz, ¶ 18	Ex. 32 at JH 008153-209 (RFA)
22.	Drafts of the Descriptive Memoranda created by the Abbott working groups were circulated to more senior Abbott management personnel, including Mr. Deemer and Dr. John Leonard, Abbott's Vice President of Development, for review before they were sent to John Hancock. 23.	During negotiations, Abbott also provided information about its planned nominal and expected spending on each of the Program Compounds over the life of the Agreement in the form of various multi-year projections and drafts of Abbott's first "Annual Research Plan" ("ARP").	Blewitt, ¶ 29 Hartz, ¶ 15	Ex. 146 (Nominal & Expected Sales Forecast)
24.	Abbott personnel involved in the deal with John Hancock understood that the Descriptive Memoranda, ARPs and other materials that Abbott was providing to John Hancock were being supplied to, and used by, Hancock for the purpose of understanding and evaluating the proposed deal.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 28-30	Ex. 276 (e-mail message from P. Deemer to S. Cohen) Ex. 32 at JH 008107, 153-209 (RFA)		Deemer, 134:14-136:4 Leonard, 25:7-20
25.	Abbott personnel involved in the deal with John Hancock understood that Abbott's expected spending on the Program Compounds was important to John Hancock because Hancock regarded Abbott's own internal spending plans as a useful barometer of the commercial and technical prospects for the various Program Compounds. 26.	John Hancock's employees and consultants, including Mr. Blewitt and Dr. Lynn Klotz, a pharmaceutical consultant who was retained by Hancock to assist in analyzing the proposed Program Compounds, actually reviewed and utilized Abbott's Descriptive Memoranda, ARPs and other information in understanding and evaluating those compounds and in deciding whether to go forward with the proposed transaction. 27.	John Hancock personnel utilized the information provided by Abbott, in conjunction with general industry data obtained from other sources, to prepare a detailed computer model, known as a "Monte Carlo" simulation, which Hancock used to develop financial projections and expectations for the proposed deal with Abbott.	Blewitt, ¶ 36  Hartz, ¶¶ 16-17	Ex. 122 (example of a Hancock Monte Carlo simulation)  Ex. 125 at JH 001213-16 (Hancock Purchase Recommendations for the Abbott deal (a/k/a the "Yellow Report"))	Blewitt, 21:8-22:1

28.	John Hancock's Monte Carlo simulation entailed running multiple projected scenarios that assessed each Program Compound's commercial and scientific risk profile in order to calculate a combined risk-assessment and single expected rate-of-return on John Hancock's total investment, which information was used, in turn, by Hancock to determine what financial terms to demand in the Agreement, as well as whether to enter into the Agreement at all.	Blewitt, ¶ 37 Hartz, ¶ 17	Ex. 122 (example of a Hancock Monte Carlo simulation) Ex. 125 at JH 001214-15 (Hancock Purchase Recommendations for the Abbott deal (a/k/a the "Yellow Report"))

29.	Specific data that John Hancock's Monte Carlo simulation considered and analyzed included, among other things: (a) the number of compounds in Hancock's proposed basket; (b) the likelihood that each compound actually would be fully developed by Abbott and obtain regulatory approval; (c) the anticipated commercial launch date for each compound; (d) likely peak and total sales for each compound once launched; (e) anticipated royalty rates; (f) estimates of the milestone and royalty payments that Hancock was likely to receive on both an annual and an aggregate basis; (g) Hancock's estimated risk of loss on the transaction; and (h) Hancock's estimated annual rate of return on the transaction.	Blewitt, ¶ 38	Ex. 125 at JH 001214-15 (Hancock Purchase Recommendations for the Abbott deal (a/k/a the "Yellow Report"))

30.	In many instances, John Hancock's Monte Carlo simulation incorporated more conservative projections than those provided by Abbott in the Descriptive Memoranda and other materials provided to Hancock by Abbott, including lower peak sales projections for the Program Compounds. 31.	Under John Hancock's method of analyzing its proposed deal with Abbott, the elimination of even a single Program Compound from the basket would have had a significant, adverse impact on the results of that analysis.	Blewitt, ¶ 40 Hartz, ¶ 19		Tucker, 1539:17-1541:6
32.	John Hancock notified Abbott during negotiations of Hancock's expected returns on its investment with Abbott. On March 7, 2000, Mr. Blewitt forwarded to Mr. Deemer and Mr. Cohen a draft Summary of Terms. In his accompanying e-mail message, Mr. Blewitt stated, in part, that, [w]e believe that a diversified basket of compounds should yield the investor an IRR of 20-25%. Based on your desire to reduce the cost of capital and our desire to lower our risk, we have built in milestone payments, a tiered royalty structure, and a termination date for the royalties. The model provides us with an expected yield of 18-22%.	Blewitt, ¶ 41	Ex. 66 at AL 000132 (e-mail message from S. Blewitt to P. Deemer and S. Cohen)	Blewitt, 136:15-24 139:5-140:3

33.	Negotiations over the terms of the proposed Agreement between John Hancock and Abbott continued into the Fall of 2000.	Blewitt, ¶ 46 Hartz, ¶ 23	Ex. 124 (Aug. 2000 Draft RFA)  Ex. 129 (Nov. 2000 Draft RFA)
34.	In late October 2000, Abbott notified John Hancock that it had discontinued the development of ABT-980, one of the proposed Program Compounds. John Hancock responded by informing Abbott that Hancock was not willing to proceed with the Agreement on the terms then proposed due to the failure of ABT-980.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 54-55 Hartz, ¶ 29	Ex. 128 at JH 000778 (e-mail message from P. Deemer to S. Blewitt)	Hartz, 505:19-23  Blewitt, 210:16-211:20	Deemer, 219:1-11 222:24-223:11
35.	Rather than abandoning their proposed deal, the parties first attempted to compensate for the loss of ABT-980 by significantly altering the structure and terms of the deal, including, among other things, the timing and amount of John Hancock's potential investment, as well as the milestones that would trigger Abbott's payment obligations. Several draft agreements incorporating the modified deal structure and terms were exchanged between the parties in late 2000.	Blewitt, ¶ 56	Ex. 129 (Nov. 2000 Draft RFA)	Blewitt, 212:24-213:10  Hartz, 505:24-506:5  Deemer 1491:15-1492:19 1493:4-18 1511:2-14

36.	Unbeknownst to John Hancock, members of Abbott's senior management viewed the modified deal structure less favorably than the original structure. In an internal memorandum that Mr. Deemer sent to Arthur Higgins, President of Abbott's Pharmaceutical Products Division, on or about December 1, 2000, Mr. Deemer acknowledged the position of Abbott's management and spelled out a planned chronology of events pursuant to which Abbott would notify John Hancock, in stages spread over a series of weeks, inter alia, that Abbott's "management is less enthusiastic about moving forward due to the new deal structure," and eventually that Abbott's management "wants to postpone a final decision until the new year." Mr. Deemer simultaneously informed Mr. Higgins that he "would not anticipate reverting back to the original deal structure unless there is a change in the portfolio or possibly an IOU."	Blewitt, ¶ 57	Ex. 130 (memorandum from P. 37.	Abbott's management eventually decided, in early 2001, to move forward with the proposed deal as originally structured, and to compensate John Hancock for the loss of ABT-980 by adding two new drug compounds (ABT-510 and ABT-492) to the planned portfolio of Program Compounds.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 58, 60-62
38.	After due consideration, John Hancock accepted Abbott's proposal.	Blewitt, ¶ 62
39.	Abbott and John Hancock thereafter continued to modify and refine the terms of their proposed agreement in various ways, but the group of nine Program Compounds remained unaltered through the execution of the Agreement on March 13, 2001.	Blewitt, ¶¶ 63-64	Ex. 32 at JH 008138 (RFA)

Abbott's Initial Portfolio Prioritization Review
40.	While Abbott was negotiating the final terms of its Agreement with John Hancock in early 2001, Abbott simultaneously was conducting a thorough review of all of the pharmaceutical compounds that it then had in development as a consequence of Abbott's acquisition of Knoll Pharmaceutical Division of BASF Corporation ("Knoll") in late 2000.	Leonard, ¶ 21  Leiden, ¶ 11	Ex. 103 (Mar. 2001 Portfolio Review Meeting Agenda)		Leiden, 74:5-76:14

45.	With McKinsey's assistance and participation, Abbott conducted an "Initial Portfolio Prioritization Review" from Wednesday, March 7, through Friday, March 9, 2001 ( i.e. , approximately one week before the Agreement was executed), for the purpose of reviewing and assessing the technical, scientific, medical and commercial status of Abbott's entire portfolio of pharmaceutical compounds in development, including ABT-518, ABT-594 and ABT-773. 46.	Attendees at Abbott's Initial Portfolio Prioritization Review in early March 2001 included, among others, various members of Abbott's senior management, including Dr. Jeffrey Leiden, then Executive Vice President of Abbott's Pharmaceuticals Division and its Chief Scientific Officer, and Dr. Leonard; selected McKinsey consultants, including Dr. Hopfield; and, at appropriate points in time, the various Abbott personnel chiefly responsible for the development of the specific compounds being reviewed. 51.	The terms of the Agreement call for John Hancock to invest up to $214 million over four years in the development of nine Program Compounds including, but not limited to, ABT-518, ABT-594 and ABT-773.	Blewitt, ¶ 70	Ex. 32 at JH 008091, 138 (RFA)
52.	Under the terms of the Agreement, John Hancock's ability to earn a return on its investment in the Program Compounds depends on the commercial success of those compounds. If some or all of the compounds fail or otherwise are unsuccessful, Hancock's financial return is reduced accordingly.	Blewitt, ¶ 71  Hartz, ¶ 11  Friedman, ¶ 8	Ex. 32 at JH 008097-99 (RFA)
53.	Similarly, because John Hancock only shares in the revenues, if any, generated by the Program Compounds for a set number of years, Hancock stands to gain more if the Program Compounds are developed quickly.	Blewitt, ¶ 72  Friedman, ¶ 9	Ex. 32 at JH 008088-89 (RFA)
54.	Mr. Deemer sent the final versions of the Descriptive Memoranda for each of the Program Compounds, as well as Abbott's first ARP, to John Hancock on February 15, 2001 ( i.e. , approximately one month before the Agreement was executed). 55.	Mr. Deemer subsequently assured Mr. Blewitt by e-mail on March 12, 2001 ( i.e. , the day before the Agreement was executed) that Dr. Leonard, Abbott's Vice President of Development, had "looked at all of the documents one last time in preparation for execution" and noted only one "oversight"; a slight delay in the commencement of Abbott's Phase I study of ABT-518. According to Mr. Deemer, "Phase I was to have started on December 2000 (4Q2000), but in fact did not start until earlier this month."	Blewitt, ¶ 66	Ex. 70 at ABBT 0004031 (e-mail message from P. 56.	Mr. Deemer further told Mr. Blewitt that, although the purported delay in the commencement of Phase I for ABT-518 had "pushed the timeline [for ABT-518] back by a quarter throughout," the estimated "launch date [for ABT-518] is not affected and is actually planned one quarter earlier." Mr. Deemer attributed Abbott's alleged delay in starting the Phase I trial of ABT-518 to delays in "completing this financing."	Blewitt, ¶ 66	Ex. 70 at ABBT 0004031 (e-mail message from P. 58.	Mr. Deemer and other Abbott personnel understood, before the Agreement was signed, that each one of the Program Compounds in the proposed basket of compounds was important to the deal, and that even a slow down in the development of any of the Program Compounds, if disclosed to John Hancock, likely would cause Hancock to postpone and renegotiate the proposed deal or, possibly, withdraw from the deal entirely. 	(d) Consistent with the decision made at Abbott's Initial Portfolio Prioritization Review in early March 2001, Abbott personnel working on ABT-518 were instructed by their superiors on Sunday, March 11, 2001 (i.e., two days before the Agreement was executed), to "stop all development activities immediately." Dr. Azmi Nabulsi, an Abbott employee who was working on the Phase I study of ABT-518 that Abbott recently had commenced in the Netherlands, notified his counterpart in Europe the same day that "we are not proceeding with the trial as a result of the [ABT-518] projects re-prioritization following the acquisition of Knoll";		Ex. 144 (e-mail message from A. 	(e) As a consequence of Abbott's order to stop all development activities on ABT-518 immediately because of the low prospects of success for that compound, further enrollment in the Phase I trial of ABT-518 was halted on or about March 12, 2001 ( i.e. , the day before the Agreement was executed);		Ex. 144 (e-mail message from A. 	(f) When Mr. Deemer learned, just before the Agreement was signed, that Abbott's senior management had decided to halt further development of ABT-518, he contacted Dr. Leonard to remind him that ABT-518 was one of the Program Compounds in the planned John Hancock portfolio of compounds. Dr. Leonard, in turn, promptly spoke with Dr. Leiden, reminded him of the impending Agreement with John Hancock, and suggested that Abbott proceed with the development of ABT-518; and	Leonard, ¶ 25  Leiden, ¶¶16-17	Ex. 75 (e-mail message from P. 86.	The “scare” that Mr. Deemer referred to in his e-mail to Dr. Nisen was Abbott’s fear that John Hancock would not enter into the Agreement if Hancock knew about Abbott’s prior decision to halt all further development of ABT-518 because of the low prospects of success for that compound. 	(a) Abbott's Phase IIb trial of ABT-594 for the treatment of diabetic neuropathic pain (known within Abbott as trial "M99-114") commenced in April 2000. The Phase IIb trial was designed to include 320 "subjects" or patients in a "double-blinded" format in order to achieve what Abbott perceived would be a statistically significant result. Almost immediately, Abbott's Phase IIb trial encountered problems with "premature terminations" (i.e., subjects dropping out of the trial early) due primarily to "adverse events" ("AEs") or side effects among trial subjects involving moderate-to-severe nausea, emesis (i.e., vomiting) and dizziness;		Ex. 16 at          ABBT 0065820 (Feb.          2000 M99-114 Clinical          Protocol) Ex. 80 at          ABBT 0004422 (June          2000 ABT-594 Project          Status Report) Ex. 81 (e-mail message          from M. 	(b) By June 2000, Abbott's ABT-594 Product Development Team already was reviewing the available "strategic options" to address the slow enrollment of subjects in the trial. The premature termination and enrollment problems did not improve, however. 	(d) Abbott continued to try various measures in the Summer and Fall of 2000 to address the premature termination and enrollment problems that it was encountering in its Phase IIb trial of ABT-594, including sending written surveys to the various clinical test sites to “examine AEs (nausea, vomiting, and dizziness),” and extending the enrollment deadline for the trial from September 22, 2000, to March 2, 2001. Abbott even investigated the possible use of one or more outside patient recruitment firms to assist in identifying and enrolling more subjects in the study. Abbott's misrepresentations and failures to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-594, and its expected spending on that compound, to John Hancock in the Agreement were, in whole or in significant part, undertaken wantonly, willfully and with knowledge of their falsity for the purpose of fraudulently inducing Hancock to enter into that Agreement.		See Supporting Evidence for Paragraphs 98(a)-(v), supra	See Supporting Evidence for Paragraphs 98(a)-(v), supra	See Supporting Evidence for Paragraphs 98(a)-(v), supra

Had Abbott informed John Hancock of the true prospects and condition of ABT-594, as well as Abbott's actual expected spending on that compound, as of March 13, 2001, that information would have significantly altered the economics and attractiveness of the proposed funding deal from John Hancock's perspective, and Hancock would not have entered into that Agreement in its present form, or would not have entered into any funding agreement with Abbott whatsoever. 198.	During Hancock I , the Court expressly limited John Hancock's claims against Abbott to the question of "whether or not the termination of the Plaintiff's obligations as a result of shortfalls in the aggregate spending targets is well-founded."		Docket No. 11 (Case No. 03-12501) at 1 (Scheduling Order)
199.	During Hancock I , John Hancock's counsel expressed to the Court, during a scheduling conference on March 30, 2004, his concern that Abbott subsequently might seek to preclude Hancock from asserting additional claims against Abbott pertaining to the Agreement on the basis that such claims should have been asserted in Hancock I .		Docket No. 12 (Case No. 03-12501) at 22:5-23:19
200.	Abbott, through its counsel, expressly agreed in open Court on March 30, 2004, that Abbott would not subsequently seek to preclude John Hancock from asserting additional claims against Abbott pertaining to the Agreement on the basis that such claims should have been asserted in Hancock I . 202.	Abbott responded to John Hancock's demand for an audit of Abbott's compliance with the terms of the Agreement by engaging in a protracted, unjustified and unreasonable campaign to hinder, delay and obstruct the legitimate efforts of John Hancock and its independent auditor to examine and assess Abbott's compliance.	See Supporting Evidence for Initial Proposed FOF Paragraphs 159, 160(a)-(n), supra.	See Supporting Evidence for Initial Proposed FOF Paragraphs 159, 160(a)-(n), supra.	See Supporting Evidence for Initial Proposed FOF Paragraphs 159, 160(a)-(n), supra.

After Abbott's March 2005 decision to cease responding to John Hancock's attempted compliance audit, and prior to the Court's decision in Hancock I , John Hancock filed its Complaint in this action ( Hancock II ) on June 3, 2005. John Hancock's original Complaint alleged that, but for Abbott's misrepresentations and omissions, John Hancock "would have demanded different terms ... or may not have entered into the Agreement at all" and requested "such other and further relief as the Court deems just and appropriate in the circumstances," including, without limitation, rescission. 207.	John Hancock began reducing its expected returns on its investment in the Agreement as a result of Abbott's termination of ABT-518, ABT-594 and ABT-773 long before it filed its Complaint in Hancock II . As of late 2003, John Hancock's estimated internal rate of return was ten to thirteen percent (10-13%), down from the eighteen to twenty-two percent (17.5-22%) estimated yield that Hancock communicated to Abbott during negotiations. John Hancock also projected a dramatically increased probability of losing its entire invested capital.	Hartz, ¶ 37	Ex. 698 at JHII 012067, 012069 (Draft of Investment Review Report)
208.	In or about the fall of 2006, Abbott argued for the first time that John Hancock could not obtain rescission of the Agreement as an alternative remedy for Abbott's misrepresentations or fraud because John Hancock did not explicitly request such relief in its Complaint. From November through December 2006, Abbott produced for the first time a substantial number of additional documents relating to its misrepresentations regarding ABT-518 and ABT-594, including many documents that had been requested in the course of John Hancock's attempted compliance audit of Abbott in 2004-2005. Jurisdiction, Venue, and Choice of Law
1.	This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a). There is complete diversity of citizenship between the parties, and the amount in controversy exceeds $75,000 exclusive of interests and costs.
2.	Venue in this district is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(a)(1). Abbott resides in this district within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 1391(c). Furthermore, pursuant to Section 16.2 of the Agreement, the parties agreed to the “exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts … for the purpose of any suit, action or other proceeding” arising out of their obligations under the Agreement, and agreed to “waive[] any and all objections that [they] may have as to venue in any such courts.”
3.	Pursuant to Section 16.2 of the Agreement, Illinois law governs John Hancock’s causes of action against Abbott. Agreement, § 16.2; John Hancock Life Ins. Co. v. Abbott Laboratories , 478 F.3d 1, 6 (1st Cir. 2006) (applying Illinois law to interpretation and application of the Agreement); Lambert v. Kysar , 983 F.2d 1110, 1118 (1st Cir. 1983) (Massachusetts district courts “routinely enforce choice-of-law provisions”).
Abbott’s Fraud (Count I)
4.	Count I of John Hancock’s Second Amended Supplemental Complaint (the “Complaint”) asserts a cause of action against Abbott for fraud. In order to prove fraud under Illinois law, John Hancock must demonstrate that: (a) Abbott knowingly made a false statement and/or omission of material fact; (b) Hancock relied on that statement and/or omission; (c) Abbott made the statement and/or omission with the intent to induce Hancock to enter the Agreement; and (d) the statement and/or omission caused harm to Hancock. See, e.g. , Board of Ed. of City of Chicago v. A, C and S, Inc. , 131 Ill.2d 428, 452, 546 N.E.2d 580, 646 (Ill. 1989); Soules v. General Motors Corp. , 79 Ill.2d 282, 286, 402 N.E.2d 599, 601 (Ill. 1980).

Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 231 (1988)).
6.	Abbott cannot claim “‘negligence’ as against [its] own deliberate fraud” by asserting that John Hancock had an independent duty to conduct an investigation that may have uncovered the falsity of Abbott’s misrepresentations. See Chicago Title and Trust Co. v. First Arlington Nat’l Bank, 118 Ill.App.3d 401, 408, 454 N.E.2d 723, 729 (1st Dist. 1983) (quoting Lining v. Strong, 1883 WL 10302 at *5 (Ill. 1883); see also Eisenberg v. 7.	In calculating damages for fraud, Illinois follows the “benefit of the bargain” approach. See Giannanco v. Giannanco, 253 Ill.App.3d 750, 759, 625 N.E.2d 990, 998 (2nd Dist. 1994). “[D]amages are determined by assessing the difference between the actual value of the property sold and the value the property would have had if the representations had been true.” Gerrill Corp. v. 8.	Under Illinois law, once the existence of damage is established, evidence tending to reasonably approximate the extent of the damage is admissible. Absolute certainty as to the amount of damage in such cases is not required to justify a recovery. It is only necessary that the evidence tend to establish a basis for the assessment of damages with a fair degree of probability. De Koven Drug Co. v. First Nat’l Bank of Evergreen Park, 27 Ill.App.3d 798, 802, 327 N.E.2d 378, 380-381 (1st Dist. 1975) (citing Barnett v. Caldwell Furniture Co., 277 Ill. 286, 115 N.E. 389 (1917)).

	(a) knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-518 to John Hancock in the Agreement;
	(b) knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-594 to John Hancock in the Agreement;
	(c) knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-773 to John Hancock in the Agreement; and
	(d) knowingly and intentionally misrepresenting its intended and reasonably expected spending plans to John Hancock in its various ARPs, including its ARP for 2002.
15.	The Court concludes that Abbott's fraudulent misrepresentations and omissions were material to John Hancock's decision to enter into the Agreement.
16.	The Court concludes that John Hancock justifiably relied upon Abbott's fraudulent misrepresentations and omissions in entering into the Agreement.
17.	The Court concludes that John Hancock justifiably relied upon Abbott's fraudulent misrepresentations and omissions in making its Second Program Payment in the amount of $54,000,000 in January 2003.
18.	The Court concludes that John Hancock was under no duty to independently discover the existence, or determine the veracity, of Abbott's misrepresentations and omissions before entering into the Agreement.
19.	The Court concludes that John Hancock suffered actual, compensable harm as a result of Abbott's fraudulent misrepresentations and omissions.

20.	The Court concludes that, as a result of Abbott's fraudulent misrepresentations and omissions, Abbott is obligated to compensate John Hancock for its resulting damages.
21.	The Court concludes that, as a result of the willful and wanton nature of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and fraud , the imposition of punitive damages on Abbott in the amount of $ _____ is warranted.
Abbott's Breach of Contract (Count II)
22.	Count II of John Hancock's Complaint asserts a cause of action against Abbott for breach of contract. In order to prove breach of contract under Illinois law, John Hancock must demonstrate: (a) the existence of a valid and enforceable contract; (b) the performance of that contract by John Hancock; (c) breach of the contract by Abbott; and (d) resulting injury to Hancock. See, e.g., Hickox v. Bell , 195 Ill.App.3d 976, 992, 552 N.E.2d 1133, 1143 (5th Dist. 1990); see also Priebe v. Autobarn, Ltd. , 240 F.3d 584, 587 (7th Cir. 2001).
23.	The Court concludes that the Agreement constitutes a valid and enforceable contract.
24.	The Court concludes that John Hancock has fully performed its obligations under the Agreement.
25.	Under Illinois law, every contract includes an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. See, e.g., Dayan v. McDonald's Corp. , 125 Ill.App.3d 972, 989-990, 466 N.E.2d 958, 971 (1st Dist. 1984).
26.	The covenant of good faith and fair dealing requires that a party vested with contractual discretion must exercise that discretion reasonably and with proper motive, and may not do so arbitrarily, capriciously, or in a manner inconsistent with the reasonable expectations of the parties. See, e.g., Dayan , 125 Ill.App.3d at 990-991, 466 N.E.2d at 971; see also Gore v. Indiana Ins. Co. , 376 Ill. App.3d 282, 286, 876 N.E.2d 156, 161 (1st Dist. 2007) (the purpose of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing "is to ensure that parties do not take advantage of each other in a way that could not have been contemplated at the time the contract was drafted or do anything that will destroy the other party's right to receive the benefit of the contract").

27.	Violation of an express representation or warranty constitutes a breach of contract. See Trustees of Indiana Univ. v. Aetna Casualty &amp; Surety Co. , 920 F.2d 429, 435 n.7 (7th Cir. 2001).
28.	John Hancock is not required to prove that it actually relied on Abbott's express representations and warranties in order to prevail on its claim against Abbott for breach of those representations and warranties. See Mowbray v. Waste Mgmt. Holdings, Inc. , 45 F.Supp.2d 132, 137 (D.Mass. 1999) ("[P]roof of reliance is unnecessary when the existence of a contractual warranty is undisputed," applying Illinois law and citing Wickoff v. 29.	In calculating damages for breach of contract, Illinois follows the "benefit of the bargain" approach. See, e.g., Frank Horton &amp; Co. v. Cook Elec. Co. , 356 F.2d 485, 491-492 (7th Cir. 1966).
30.	As before, under Illinois law, "[a]bsolute certainty as to the amount of damage ... is not required to justify a recovery. 31.	In appropriate circumstances, actual damages may be awarded based on the probability of the injured party's lost chance of success. See, e.g. Miller v. Allstate Ins. Co. , 573 So.2d 24, 29 (Fla. App. 3 Dist. 1990) ( value of plaintiffs' opportunity or chance of success at the time of the breach was proper basis for a damages award ); Wachtel v. JOHN HANCOCK V. ABBOTT (05-11150)*JOHN HANCOCK'S ANNOTATED PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT & CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
39.	John Hancock bears the burden of proving Abbott's breach of contract by a preponderance of the evidence. See Mannion v. Stallings &amp; Co. , 204 Ill.App.3d 179, 186, 561 N.E.2d 1134, 1138 (1st Dist. 1990).
40.	John Hancock has satisfied its burden of proving Abbott's breach of contract by a preponderance of the evidence in this case.
41.	Based on the foregoing findings of fact, the Court concludes that Abbott breached the Agreement by:
	(a) misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-518 to John Hancock in the Agreement;
	(b) misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-594 to John Hancock in the Agreement;
	(c) misrepresenting and/or failing to disclose material information concerning the prospects and condition of ABT-773 to John Hancock in the Agreement;
	(d) misrepresenting its intended and reasonably expected spending plans to John Hancock in its various ARPs, including its ARP for 2002;
	(e) failing to pay John Hancock one-third of the unspent portion of the Aggregate Carryover Amount within thirty (30) days of the end of 2005;
	(f) hindering, delaying and obstructing the legitimate efforts of John Hancock and its independent auditor to audit Abbott's compliance with the terms of the Agreement;

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
	(g) failing to out-license or divest ABT-518 to a third party from 2001 to the present;
	(h) failing to out-license or divest ABT-594 to a third party from 2001 to the present; and
	(i) exercising its discretion under the Agreement unreasonably, with improper motive, arbitrarily, capriciously, and in a manner inconsistent with the reasonable expectations of the parties.
42.	The Court concludes that Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract resulted in, or reasonably could have been expected to result in, a material adverse effect on the prospects or condition (including safety, efficacy, scientific viability or commercial viability) of the Research Program or any of the Program Compounds.
43.	The Court concludes that John Hancock suffered actual harm as a result of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract.
44.	The Court concludes that, as a result of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract, Abbott is obligated to compensate John Hancock for its resulting damages.
45.	The Court concludes that, as a result of the willful and wanton nature of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract, the imposition of punitive damages on Abbott in the amount of $ _____ is warranted.
	Indemnification by Abbott (Count III)
46.	Count III of John Hancock's Complaint asserts a cause of action against Abbott for indemnification pursuant to the terms of the Agreement. Section 12.6 of the Agreement provides, in relevant part, that "Abbott shall indemnify and hold John Hancock ... harmless ... from and against any Losses related to or arising out of, directly or indirectly ... any breach by Abbott of its representations, warranties or obligations hereunder...."

47.	Compensable "Losses" are defined in Section 1.27 of the Agreement as "any claims, demands, liabilities, costs, damages, judgments, settlements and other reasonable expenses (including attorneys' fees)."
48.	The Court concludes that John Hancock suffered compensable Losses as a result of Abbott's various misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract.
49.	The Court concludes that, as a result of Abbott's various misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract, Abbott is obligated under Section 12.6 of the Agreement to indemnify John Hancock for its resulting Losses.
Alternative Remedy of Rescission (Prayer (e))
50.	Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(c), "[e]very [] final judgment should grant the relief to which each party is entitled, even if the party has not demanded that relief in its pleadings." See, e.g. , U.S. v. Marin , 651 F.2d 24, 30-31 (1st Cir. 1981) (Rule 54(c) "has been liberally construed, leaving no question that it is the court's duty to grant whatever relief is appropriate in the case on the facts proved" (citations omitted)); In re Blinds to Go Share Purchase Litig. , 443 F.3d 1, 8 (1st Cir. 2006) (although plaintiff did not explicitly request rescission, court upheld finding of such remedy because "in choosing among equitable remedies, a nisi prius court has the ability -- indeed, the duty -- to weigh all the relevant facts and circumstances and to craft appropriate relief on a case-by-case basis" (citation omitted)).
51.	Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(c) authorizes the Court to rescind the Agreement if Hancock is entitled to such relief.
52.	Rescission is an equitable remedy that involves the unwinding of a contract so as to return the contracting parties, to the extent possible, to the status quo ante. See, e.g. , Finke v. Woodard , 122 Ill.App.3d 911, 919, 462 N.E.2d 13, 19 (4th Dist. 1984) ("The purpose of a rescissionary award is to disaffirm the transaction of the parties and restore them to the status quo ante as it existed prior to the execution of the contract" (citation omitted)). The "termination" of a contract, on the other hand, ends the parties' contractual relationship without necessarily altering their existing conditions or status. See, e.g. , Wiley v. Mason , 224 B.R. 58, 71 (N.D. Ill. 1998) ("rescission' amounts to the unmaking of a contract or an undoing of it from the beginning, and not merely a termination"), rev'd on other grounds, 237 B.R. 677 (N.D. Ill. 1999).

JOHN HANCOCK V. ABBOTT (05-11150)*JOHN HANCOCK'S ANNOTATED PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT & CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
53.	Under Illinois law, rescission is an alternative and equitable remedy for fraud or breach of contract. See Home Savings Ass'n of Kansas City v. State Bank of Woodstock , 763 F.Supp. 292, 296 (N.D. Ill. 1991); Newton v. Aitken , 260 Ill.App.3d 717, 719, 633 N.E.2d 213, 216 (3d Dist. 1994) (court may award rescission where there is material breach or fraud).
54.	Whether rescission is warranted in a particular case depends upon whether “the matter, in respect to which the failure of performance occurs, is of such a nature and of such importance that the contract would not have been made without it.” C3 Technologies, Inc. v. Fontana Machine &amp; Engineering Co. , 1992 WL 97712, at *4 (quotations and citations omitted); Trapkus v. Edstrom's Inc. , 140 Ill.App.3d 720, 725, 489 N.E.2d 340, 345 (3d Dist. 1986).
55.	The Court concludes that Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions, fraud and breach of contract in this matter were of such a nature and of such importance that the Agreement would not have been made without them.
56.	Abbott waived the legal arguments that it asserts to John Hancock's prayer for rescission by voluntarily agreeing to withdraw its prior opposition, based on essentially identical grounds, to John Hancock's Motion to Amend its Complaint in December 2006.
57.	A party that withdraws its opposition to an opposing party's motion and confirms its withdrawal when explicitly asked by the Court at oral proceedings “can be understood as waiving any objection.” Lopez del Valle v. Gobierno de la Capital , 855 F. Supp. 34, 35 (D.P.R. 1994); see also Mountain Wireless, Inc. v. Cumulus Broadcasting, Inc. , 2001 WL 40908, *1 (D. Me. Jan. 17, 2001) (by dropping previous assertion of misrepresentation in its reply memorandum to defendant's opposition, plaintiff waived argument).
58.	John Hancock also did not engage in undue delay and is not precluded by the doctrine of laches from seeking rescission of the Agreement.

JOHN HANCOCK'S ANNOTATED PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT &amp; CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
59.	A defendant cannot defeat a rescission claim on grounds of undue delay when the defendant itself is responsible, in whole or in large part, for the alleged delay. See Roda v. Berko, 401 Ill. 335, 342, 81 N.E.2d 912, 916 (Ill. 1948) (“[W]here there is an intentional and deliberate fraud, as appears from the allegations of the amended complaint in this case, it is not the privilege of the perpetrator of the fraud to interpose a defense that the one defrauded was not sufficiently careful to discover the fraud and prevent its accomplishment. In such a case one cannot impute negligence as against his own deliberate fraud and say that the party defrauded gave him too much credit for honesty.”); see also Evans v. Brooks, 124 P. 599, 603 (Okla. 1912) (delay of eight months after discovery of fraud not fatal to rescission claim when the delay was caused by defendant); Denny v. Guyton, 327 Mo. 1030, 1055, 40 S.W.2d 562, 571 (1931) (delay in bringing suit does not bar rescission when “the delay was caused by defendant’s conduct”).
60.	Sections 11.2 and 11.3 of the Agreement do not bar John Hancock from seeking or obtaining rescission of the Agreement as an alternative remedy at trial. Even assuming, arguendo, that the language of these sections did limit available remedies for material misrepresentations, omissions and fraud, under Illinois law, exculpatory clauses for willful and wanton conduct are void as a matter of public policy. See, e.g., Kleinwort Benson N.A., Inc. v. Quantum Fin. Servs., Inc., 285 Ill.App.3d 201, 215-216, 673 N.E.2d 369, 379 (1st Dist. 1996) (individual citations omitted).
61.	The doctrine of judicial estoppel does not preclude John Hancock from seeking or obtaining rescission of the Agreement as an alternative remedy at trial.
62.	Judicial estoppel applies only when a party has “deliberately chang[ed] [the] positions” that it took from a previous action in order to gain some unfair “legal advantage” over a party in a subsequent proceeding. See New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-750 (2001) (internal quotations and citations omitted); Alternative System Concepts, Inc. v. Synopsys, Inc., 374 F.3d 23, 33 (1st Cir. 2004); Patriot Cinemas, Inc. v. General Cinema Corp., 834 F.2d 208, 212 (1st Cir. 1987) (judicial estoppel applies when “intentional self-contradiction is being used as a means of obtaining unfair advantage...” (quotation marks omitted)). John Hancock did not do so.

JOHN HANCOCK'S ANNOTATED PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT &amp; CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
63.	Illinois law requires that a party demonstrate that it actually has been prejudiced by an opposing party's purported delay in seeking rescission of a contract in order to bar rescission on that basis. See, e.g., Renth v. Krausz , 219 Ill.App.3d 120, 121, 579 N.E.2d 11, 12 (5th Dist. 1991) (rescission of contract based upon allegation of laches requires demonstration that the claimant's "lack of due diligence has caused prejudice to an opponent"); Hay v. Albrecht , 169 Ill.App.3d 120, 121, 124, 523 N.E.2d 211, 213-214 (2d Dist. 1988) (holding in an action for rescission of an installment contract to purchase a farm that "the defense of laches is only applicable if there has been unreasonable delay in asserting a right coupled with prejudice to the opposing party as a result of the delay"); Bledsoe v. Carpenter , 163 Ill.App.3d 823, 826, 516 N.E.2d 1013, 1015 (3d Dist. 1987) (for alleged delay to bar rescission of a contract, it "must be such that, taken with other circumstances, it has caused prejudice to the defendant").
64.	Bare-bones claims of prejudice based upon a party's mere continued performance of contractual obligations fails to constitute the "serious prejudice" that is necessary to justify a finding of judicial estoppel from seeking rescission of contract. See Desjardins v. Van Buren Community Hosp. , 37 F.3d 21, 23 (1st Cir. 1994) (rejecting plaintiff's judicial estoppel argument when the defendant's alleged change in position had not "been shown to have caused any serious prejudice to judicial proceedings or the position of the opposing party"); Time Warner Sports Merch. v. Chicagoland Processing Corp. , 974 F.Supp. 1163, 1170 (N.D. Ill. 1997) (rejecting claim of prejudice based on continued performance of contract).
65.	Continued performance under a contract does not constitute sufficient prejudice to bar rescission as a remedy. See, id.
66.	Abbott has not suffered, and will not suffer, any actual prejudice as a result of John Hancock seeking and obtaining rescission of the Agreement as an alternative remedy at trial.
67.	The Court may not and will not consider, in support of Abbott's claim that John Hancock is precluded from seeking or obtaining rescission of the Agreement, Abbott's allegations regarding the November 2003 settlement negotiations between the parties. Those settlement negotiations, and any and all statements made in the course of those settlement negotiations, may not be offered or admitted for any purpose in this proceeding pursuant to Fed. R. Evid. 408.

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
68.	The Court concludes that, as a result of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions, fraud and breach of contract in this matter, John Hancock may elect to rescind the Agreement and return the parties to the status quo ante by requiring Abbott to refund to John Hancock any and all Program Payments made to Abbott by Hancock, less any payments already received from Abbott by Hancock, plus interest and costs.
69.	If John Hancock elects to rescind the Agreement as permitted, Hancock nonetheless shall recover punitive damages from Abbott in the amount of $_____ due to the willful and wanton nature of Abbott's misrepresentations, omissions and breach of contract. See, e.g., Mehovic v. Mehovic, 133 N.C.App. 131, 136-137, 514 S.E.2d 730, 734 (N.C. 1999) (upholding award of punitive damages in conjunction with rescission remedy and stating, “[w]hile our courts have not specifically addressed the propriety of awarding punitive damages based upon the remedy of rescission, the modern trend contemplates no logical reason for permitting punitive damages for the tort of fraud and deceit in a law action, and foreclosing such damages for fraud and deceit in an equitable action.”); Mid-State Homes, Inc. v. Johnson, 294 Ala. 59, 66, 311 So.2d 312, 318 (Ala. 1975) (upholding award of punitive damages in conjunction with rescission remedy and stating, “[t]o allow [punitive damages] when a contract is affirmed, and not when there is a rescission, is illogical when the purposes of punitive damages are considered. The punitive and deterrent force of the law should be present in both types of cases since both arise from perpetration of fraud.”); cf. Cummings v. Dusenberry, 129 Ill. App. 3d 338, 346, 472 N.E.2d 575, 581 (2 Dist. 1984) (where rescission was awarded, had fraud been found, plaintiffs would have been entitled to exemplary damages).
Abbott's Affirmative Defenses
70.	Abbott has raised various affirmative defenses to John Hancock's claims in this action. Affirmative defenses must be plainly set forth in the defendant's answer, and the facts establishing the defenses must be plead by the defendant with the same degree of specificity as is required of a plaintiff alleging the essential elements of a cause of action. See Goldman v. Walco Tool &amp; Eng. Co. , 243 Ill.App.3d 981, 989, 614 N.E.2d 42, 48 (1st Dist. 1993), appeal denied , 152 Ill.2d 558, 622 N.E.2d 1204 (Ill. 1993).
71.	Abbott's first affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. In order to succeed, such an affirmative defense must, at the minimum, fulfill the basic pleading requirements of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. See Bobbit v. Victorian House, Inc. , 532 F.Supp. 734, 737 (N.D. Ill. 1982) (cited with approval by Heller Fin. Inc. v. Midwhey Power Co., Inc. , 883 F.2d 1286, 1294 (7th Cir. 1989)).

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
72.	An affirmative defense that the plaintiff has failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted will be stricken if the defendant cannot prove any set of facts in support of the defense that defeats the complaint. See Builders Bank v. First Bank &amp; Trust Co. of Illinois , 2004 WL 626827, at *2 (N.D. Ill. March 25, 2004).
73.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
74.	Abbott's second affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of waiver. Under Illinois law, waiver is the express or implied intentional relinquishment of a known right. See, e.g., Pantle v. Indus. Comm'n , 61 Ill.2d 365, 372, 335 N.E.2d 491, 496 (Ill. 1975).
75.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of waiver. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
76.	Abbott's third affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of estoppel. Under Illinois law, a defense of equitable estoppel requires: (1) words or conduct by the party against whom the estoppel is alleged amounting to a misrepresentation or concealment of material facts; (2) knowledge by the party against whom estoppel is asserting at the time the representations were made that the representations are false, or that the representation was made with gross negligence as to their truth; (3) the truth respecting the representations was unknown to the party asserting estoppel at the time the representations were made and when they were acted upon; (4) the party against whom estoppel is claimed must intend or reasonably expect that the representations or concealment would be acted upon by the party asserting estoppel or the public generally; (5) the party asserting estoppel must have relied upon the representation in good faith to its detriment; and (6) the party claiming the benefit of the estoppel would be prejudiced if the other party is permitted to deny the falsity of the misrepresentation or concealment. See Geddes v. Mill Creek Country Club, Inc. , 196 Ill.2d 302, 313-314, 751 N.E.2d 1150, 1157 (Ill. 2001) ( citing Vaughan v. Speaker , 126 Ill.2d 150, 162-163, 533 N.E.2d 885, 890 (Ill. 1988)).

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
77.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of estoppel. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
78.	Abbott's fourth affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrines of laches and unclean hands. Under Illinois law, "a party asserting laches [as an affirmative defense] must prove two fundamental elements: (1) lack of due diligence by the party asserting a claim; and (2) prejudice to the party asserting laches." Negron v. City of Chicago , 376 Ill.App.3d 242, 247, 876 N.E.2d 148, 153 (1st Dist. 2007) (internal citations omitted). For the doctrine of laches to apply, a defendant must assert that the plaintiff had knowledge of his right but failed to assert it in a timely manner. Id. Further, "[a] reasonable excuse for delay in filing the petition will defeat the defense." Id.
79.	A defendant asserting "unclean hands" as a defense must prove that the plaintiff is guilty of fraud or bad faith toward the defendant. See Beitner v. Marzahl , 354 Ill.App.3d 142, 150, 819 N.E.2d 1266, 1274 (2d Dist. 2004). "It is within the sound discretion of the trial court whether to apply the doctrine of unclean hands, and its application is not favored." Id.
80.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrines of laches and unclean hands. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
81.	Abbott's fifth affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of election of remedies. Under Illinois law, a party pursuing a claim for breach of contract simultaneously may seek both its actual damages and rescission of the underlying agreement as alternative remedies. See Quality Components Corporation v. Kel-Keef Enterprises, Inc. , 316 Ill.App.3d 998, 1008-1011, 738 N.E.2d 524, 531-534 (1st Dist. 2000).
82.	As a "general rule," Illinois confines the doctrine of election of remedies "to cases where (1) double compensation of the plaintiff is threatened or (2) the defendant has actually been misled by the plaintiff's conduct or (3) res judicata can be applied." Kel-Keef , 316 Ill.App.3d at 1008, 738 N.E.2d at 531.

83.	An election of remedies typically does not take place unless and until the claimant has prosecuted a remedial right to judgment. Kel-Keef, 316 Ill.App.3d at 1008, 738 N.E.2d at 532 (citations and quotations omitted). Until the plaintiff makes such an election, he or she may submit “both the legal and equitable claim[s] to the jury.” Finke v. Woodard, 122 Ill.App.3d 911, 919 (4th Dist. 1984); see also First National Bank of Lake Park v. Gay, 694 So.2d 784, 786 (Fla. App. 1997) (holding that a plaintiff may seek dual remedies “even where remedies are mutually exclusive, [as] an election between such remedies can be made at any time prior to the entry of judgment. Although [the plaintiff] could recover only on one remedy, it had the right to await the outcome of the entire trial and elect its remedy at the end of trial.”) (quotations omitted).
84.	So long as an election is made prior to the entry of the judgment, the doctrine of election of remedies does not bar a plaintiff from electing its remedy after a verdict is granted. See, e.g., Genetti v. Caterpillar, Inc., 261 Neb. 98, 123, 621 N.W.2d 529, 547 (Neb. 2001) (holding “once a plaintiff receives verdicts under both theories of recovery, he or she must elect between them.”); Wynfield Inns v. Edward Leroux Group, Inc., 896 F.2d 483, 488 (11th Cir. 1990) (holding that generally “an election between inconsistent remedies is made after a verdict is entered but prior to entry of judgment.”).
85.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of election of remedies. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
86.	Abbott's sixth affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of ratification. “A victim of fraud who accepts the benefits flowing from a contract for a considerable length of time may ratify the contract.” Hofferkamp v. Brehm, 273 Ill.App.3d 263, 273, 652 N.E.2d 1381, 1389 (4th Dist. 1995). However, “ratification can be effected only when it appears that the party to be charged with ratification clearly evidences an intent to abide and be bound by the act, with full knowledge of the act.” Id.; see also Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. v. Reyna, 201 N.E.2d 144, 151 (1st Dist. 1964).
87.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of ratification. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
88.	Abbott's seventh affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the "doctrine of delay." Illinois courts do not recognize an affirmative defense of delay separate and apart from the defense of laches. As stated above, "a party asserting laches [as an affirmative defense under Illinois law] must prove two fundamental elements: (1) lack of due diligence by the party asserting a claim; and (2) prejudice to the party asserting laches." Negron , 376 Ill.App.3d at 247, 876 N.E.2d at 153 (internal citations omitted). For the doctrine of laches to apply, a defendant must assert that the plaintiff had knowledge of his right but failed to assert it in a timely manner. Id. Further, "[a] reasonable excuse for delay in filing the petition will defeat the defense." Id.
89.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on some or all of the elements of its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of delay (or laches). Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
90.	Abbott's eighth affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the applicable statutes of limitation. Under Illinois law, the statute of limitations for a claim alleging breach of contract is ten (10) years. See 735 ILCS 5/13-206; Armstrong v. Guigler , 174 Ill.2d 281, 291, 673 N.E.2d 290, 295 (Ill. 1996) (Illinois statute of limitations for a breach of written contract claim is ten years). The statute of limitations for a claim asserting fraud is five (5) years. See ILCS 5/13-205; Thompson v. Howard , 32 Ill.App.3d 991, 996, 337 N.E.2d 94, 99 (3d Dist. 1975) (Illinois statute of limitations for fraud and tortious misrepresentation claims is five years).
91.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims against Abbott are barred by the applicable statutes of limitation. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
92.	Abbott's ninth affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claims and requests for relief are barred, in whole or in part, by Hancock's own alleged violations and breaches of the Agreement.
93.	John Hancock has fulfilled all of its obligations under the Agreement. Accordingly, Abbott's affirmative defense that John Hancock's claims against Abbott are barred, in whole or in part, by Hancock's own alleged violations and breaches of the Agreement is hereby rejected.

JOHN HANCOCK'S ANNOTATED PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT &amp; CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

PARAGRAPH NUMBER	TEXT OF PROPOSED CONCLUSION OF LAW
94.	Abbott's tenth affirmative defense asserts that some or all of the damages or other relief claimed by John Hancock are not recoverable as a matter of law.
95.	John Hancock is seeking damages or other relief for breach of contract, fraud and indemnification. In calculating damages for fraud and breach of contract claims, Illinois follows the "benefit of the bargain" approach. See Giammanco , 253 Ill.App.3d at 759, 625 N.E.2d at 998 (fraud); Frank Horton , 356 F.2d at 491-492 (breach of contract).
96.	Section 12.6 of the Agreement expressly provides, in relevant part, that "Abbott shall indemnify and hold John Hancock ... harmless ... from and against any Losses related to or arising out of, directly or indirectly ... any breach by Abbott of its representations, warranties or obligations hereunder...." Compensable "Losses" are defined in Section 1.27 of the Agreement as "any claims, demands, liabilities, costs, damages, judgments, settlements and other reasonable expenses (including attorneys' fees)."
97.	Under Illinois law, "[a]bsolute certainty as to the amount of damage ... is not required to justify a recovery. It is only necessary that the evidence tend to establish a basis for the assessment of damages with a fair degree of probability." De Koven Drug , 27 Ill.App.3d at 802, 327 N.E.2d at 380-381.
98.	In appropriate circumstances, actual damages may be awarded based on the probability of the injured party's lost chance of success. See, e.g. Miller v. Allstate Ins. Co. , 573 So.2d 24, 29 (Fla. App. 3 Dist. 1990) ( value of plaintiffs' opportunity or chance of success at the time of the breach was proper basis for a damages award ); Wachtel v. Nat'l Alfalfa Journal Co. , 176 N.W. 801, 803-4 (Iowa 1920) ( contestant in a magazine contest recovered damages for lost chance to win when contest was discontinued, and jury was to consider her reasonable probability of success ); Kansas City, M. &amp; O. Ry. v Bell , 197 S.W. 322 at 323 (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) ( damages for lost chance of winning prize money permitted based on the probability that the plaintiffs' hogs would have won a hog exhibition ); RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF CONTRACTS § 348 (1981); See generally, Melvin Aron Eisenberg, Probability and Chance in Contract Law , 45 UCLA L. Rev. 1005 (1998); Howard Ross Feldman, Comment, Chances As Protected Interests: Recovery for the Loss of a Chance and Increased Risk , 17 U. BALTIMORE L. REV. 139 (1987); Note, Damages Contingent Upon Chance , 18 RUTGERS L. REV. 875 (1964).
99.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on its affirmative defense that some or all of the damages or other relief claimed by John Hancock are not recoverable as a matter of law. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.

100.	Abbott's eleventh affirmative defense asserts that John Hancock's claim for fraud is barred by the economic loss doctrine. Under Illinois law, solely economic losses are generally not recoverable in tort actions in the absence of personal injury or property damage. See, e.g., Moorman Manuf. Co. v. Nat'l Tank Co., 91 Ill.2d 69, 88-89, 435 N.E.2d 443, 452 (Ill. 1982). However, this rule does not apply "where the plaintiff's damages are the proximate result of a defendant's intentional, false representation (fraud)." In re Illinois Bell Switching Station Litigation, 161 Ill.2d 233, 240-241, 641 N.E.2d 440, 443-444 (Ill. 1994).
101.	Abbott has failed to introduce sufficient evidence to prevail on its affirmative defense that John Hancock's claim for fraud is barred by the economic loss doctrine. Accordingly, that defense is hereby rejected.
102.	Judgment shall enter in favor of plaintiffs John Hancock, JHVL, and Manulife against defendant Abbott Labs in the amount of $ _____.
